Unfortunately, questionnaire design has no theoretical base to guide the marketing researcher in developing a flawless questionnaire. All the researcher has to guide him/her is a lengthy list of do's and don'ts born out of the experience of other researchers past and present. Hence, questionnaire design is more of an art than a science.

Empirical research on cognitive development in children (Gopnik 2003) and cross-cultural comparisons of conceptual organisation and preference (Atran et al. 1999; Medin et al. 2006; Ross and Medin 2005) has shown strong support for 'theory theory' accounts. Quine's view of science as 'self-conscious common sense' provides a further form of philosophical endorsement to this view.
